

InterRegional Society of Jungian Analysts

Please Join Us for an Invitation-Only Conference
Nurturing Soul in Uncertain Times

October 20-21, 2017
Minneapolis, Minnesota

The Inter-Regional Society of Jungian Analysts (IRSJA) is pleased to announce our third 'invitation-only' conference, welcoming participants in IRSJA seminars and study groups, along with visiting analysts. You are cordially invited to join our Society of analysts and candidates for a program of lectures and discussions on the theme of "Nurturing Soul in Uncertain Times."

This conference takes place in a time of great political and cultural uncertainty. As we witness the widespread activation of primal anxieties, we are challenged to better understand what is emerging from the collective psyche and to develop meaningful psychological responses. The conference will provide a forum to explore and reflect on these concerns. Our presenters, all Jungian Analysts, will share their perspectives on questions such as these:

- How can Jung's psychology help us to understand the changes occurring in society and to make ethical choices about them?
- How might we nurture Soul in ourselves, our clients and the world during these challenging times?
- What can Jungians offer to individuals and to the broader culture?

This is an opportunity to deepen your understanding of Jungian psychology in a warm, collegial atmosphere, while experiencing the stimulating learning environment that takes place during a meeting of Jungian analysts from across North America.

Psychologists, social workers, counselors and marriage and family therapists can receive 10 Continuing Education Credits for attendance.
